Criteria For An In-Home Safety Plan

Can you answer yes to all of these questions?

- Is there a home-like setting where the parent(s) and child(ren) live?
- Is the home calm enough to allow safety service providers and activities to occur?
- Is at least one parent willing to cooperate with the safety plan?
- Are the necessary safety activities and resources available to implement the plan?

If so, an in-home plan is appropriate and the least intrusive.
